SABRE SAW BLADES

These high quality blades are manufactured for precision and stability when cutting. Their design and tooth geometry vary with regard to the speed and cutting application which they are intended to perform.

Blade Types & Applications

Selecting the correct sabre saw blade for the task at hand is essential if the material is to be cut successfully and the desired result achieved.

Wood Blades

HCS High carbon steel blades are specially adapted for wood working in terms of hardness and resistance. They are also highly suitable for other, relatively soft materials.
